Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Wiltsie (Inez Tubbs) are visiting in town. Mrs. Wiltsie is visiting her mother, Mrs. Abbie J. Tubbs. Mr. and Mrs. Wiltsie motored from St. Petersburg, Fla.

A vivid story of rum smugglers, with the trailer and pistol shots at the midnight hour, one morning last week, has vanished from the picture. The rumor started when a garage mechanic was trying out an auto engine upon which he had work industriously during the evening. To check up on the result, he sent the car down Main Street and followed in another auto a short distance behind. Backfiring explains the alleged pistol shots.

Further plans for the American Legion dances in the Memorial building on Oxford County Fair nights, call for five dollar prizes each evening. The boys plan to have something different each night and make the affair interesting. The rooms will be in charge of responsible people and checks issued free. Refreshments will be served by the Auxiliary. Shaw's Orchestra will play.

The American Legion will hold a special dance, Saturday night, as one of the closing events for Dollar Day. This will be held at the Legion Home, where the floor is smooth like glass. Shaw's Orchestra will furnish music.

A group of young people have organized an orchestra called "Jolly Norwegians" and expect some business. Their first job is at the alumni banquet and dance, August 27. Members of the orchestra are Miss Evelyn Gilman, piano; Paul Brown, violin; Kenneth "Bunk" Goodwin, banjo; "Pip" Greenleaf, cornet; Arnold Hasty, saxophone and clarinet; George Stevens, drums.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Libby of Portland, formerly of Norway, are visiting relatives here this week. They expect to return to their home the last of the week.

Encouraging reports of Mrs. Fred E. Drake's condition have been received from Central Maine General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Decoster left, Thursday, for Old Orchard, where they will spend a week at Haven Cottage.

Baseball

PINE TREE LEAGUE

Norway 6; South Paris 0

At Norway, Saturday, South Paris was unable to get underway against McCarthy and gilt edge support, therefore fell down with only four scattered singles and no runs. Norway collected 11 slams and 6 runs. The visitors pulled off a number of snappy double plays that cut into Norway's advances.

West Paris 10; Turner 5

At West Paris, August 14, the leaders of the League snatched the game from Turner in a batting contest, in which Billings, Russell, Davidson and Records featured the two-base stuff. West Paris had two joyful innings and harvested 8 runs in that merry-go-round. Turner displayed some of the same stuff in the eighth and pushed across 4 scores in a second-wind rally. Turner's four errors during the contest came into the picture when clean-cut work might have kept the home team on a closer scoring margin.

Oxford 5; Mechanic Falls 0

Oxford journeyed to Mechanic Falls, Saturday, and tuned in on the local station with 12 hits off Tracy and 5 runs. Mechanic Falls was helpless against Delano and his support, they failed to register a single crossing. Both teams did excellent business in the field with only one error charged against each combination.

Games Wednesday

South Paris 5; Norway 4

In a 12 inning thriller at South Paris, the home team squeezed across a run, smashing a tie that had hung fire from the eighth inning. The winning score was made on Norway's fungo when the Norwayites started from the field, believing the third runner had been retired. As a matter of fact, the man was declared safe. In the midst of the excitement a South Paris runner on third skipped over the pan and won the game before the situation was realized.

South Paris led the field and held Norway to zero until the eighth when the visitors went into a 2-2 combination. Each scored one in the ninth. Norway led with one in the 12th, but Paris worked a tie, then took advantage of the misunderstanding and broke the deadlock.

Naturally opinions vary regarding Umpire Lowell's decision at first base. A number of disinterested visitors on the first base line declare the runner was out by a good margin, and the inning should have ended in a deadlock. The teams and their supporters showed good sportsmanship and left the field without an old fashioned riot as in by-gone days.

West Paris 10; Turner 0

At Turner, the League leaders blanked the home contingent and walloped Davidson for 14 hits, including a three sacker by pitcher Benson. Only two Turner players reached second base and there they died. West Paris made their killing in the fourth and fifth with 4 and 5 runs respectively. One more registered in the eighth.

Mechanic Falls 3; Oxford 3

Darkness halted a tie game at the end on the ninth at Oxford. Mechanic Falls captured 3 runs in the fourth and held there to the end. Oxford found one in the fifth and 2 in the ninth for a tie. Umpire Anderson called Dunbar of Oxford out at the plate on a close play in the sixth, and started a dispute which added a real kick to an exciting game.

Games for Saturday

Norway at Oxford; West Paris at So. Paris; Mechanic Falls at Turner.

Wedding

Kimball-Ludwig

George Alden Kimball and Miss Rena Nettie Ludwig, both of Richmond, were united in marriage at the Methodist parsonage, Wednesday, Aug. 18, by Rev. N. R. Pearson. The ceremony took place at high noon, the double ring service being used, and the decorations were snapdragons, sweet peas and potted plants.

The bride was gowned in blue silk, with coat and hat of dove color. The groom wore the conventional black.

The bride is a graduate of Richmond High School and employed in the National Bank. The groom is employed in the paper box factory.

Immediately after the ceremony, they left, by automobile, for the Pacific coast, to be gone two months, after which they will be at home in Richmond.

Immediately preceding the ceremony a dinner was served by Mr. and Mrs. Pearson.

NORWAY GRANGE

Nearly every member had a short poem or story for Grange roll call last Saturday night. On the 28th, the ladies will furnish a supper at 7. P. M., after which the men will give the entertainment.

The following committee for the Alumni Banquet, August 27, has been appointed: Eva Jackson, Carrie Jackson, Leal Watson, Ida Richardson, Lizzie Howe, Edith Knightly, Hazel Hunt, Ida Gammon and Edith Greenleaf.

ANNUAL REUNION

Plans are well under way for the Annual reunion of the Norway High School and Norway Liberal Institute Alumni, which will be held Friday evening, August 27 at Norway Grange Hall. The banquet will be served by the ladies of the Grange, with Mrs. Eva Jackson, as chairman. Hugh Pendexter will act as toast master. Officers will be elected for the coming year, and the Loving cup, won last year by the class of 1879, will be in competition.

It is up to every class to turn out as large as possible for a pleasant evening for their Alma Mater.

After the business meeting there will be the reunion of classes in the upper hall and a social dance. The High School orchestra has volunteered to furnish music which will be a great help, financially. "Everybody out" is the slogan.

CRIMINAL SNATCHER WEEKS' SECOND VISIT TO NORWAY

Henry C. Weeks and wife and his father and sister, of Boston, called on us last Saturday. Mr. Weeks is a liability insurance adjuster with office at 141 Milk Street.

On a previous visit here he took seven "suspects" from Paris jail to Boston, 5 of them were convicted for auto stealing and 3 are now serving time in prison.

It is interesting to listen to his story of legal hold-up and expenses of getting prisoners out of Oxford County. He says the cost was something collossal with much red tape fixtures.

They left Boston, Thursday, and made a quick trip through the White Mountains and expected to be on his job the following Monday.

We expect to be with Mr. Weeks and wife at Phoenix Camps, Sourdnahunk, Maine, about the middle of next month.

WANTED

Young woman to learn to operate Linotype Machine, at Advertiser Office. One residing in Norway preferred. Steady work for right party.

VISITS HIS HOME OF YEARS AGO

John W. York, Jr., son of John York of York's Mills, Norway, left his home and went out in the world for himself in 1880. He married a Brooklyn, N. Y. woman and has raised up a family of five children, who are now settled in homes of their own.

Mr. York has been in this vicinity for some six weeks. He has been stopping with his sister, Mrs. Ed Carter, in Greenwood and has made repairs and fixed over the barn.

It was several years ago he made his last visit here. The most of his folks have passed on. He is to visit some of his children in Massachusetts before returning to Brooklyn.

EX-GOVERNOR BAXTER TEAMED OXEN

Ex-Governor Percival Baxter wielded the goad stick over Spaulding Abbott's ox team on a country road in Norway, Tuesday afternoon.

It came about after the meeting at So. Paris, when, in company with Donald B. Partridge of Norway, and others, a pilgrimage was made to the home of Mellie and Gram. The fiddler and his wife were out of town, so the real thrill came later on the road, when the party came in contact with Spaulding and his well known ox team. The ex-governor halted the calvacade, grasped the goad stick and plunged into the serious business of guiding beefers. According to reports, he understood the game and passed the ordeal with flying colors. Sam Connors of the Lewiston Journal "shot" the scene and has the evidence.

MEETING OF GIRLS' CLUB

The Penneseewassee Girls' Club met for their last meeting with the County Club Leader, Mrs. Harriet Brown. After the usual session, the girls each made a hemmed patch. A social half hour followed, with games and refreshments. The girls attended the Club Field Day at Bear Pond Park on Friday.

The next meeting will be on August 23 at the home of the Local Leader, Mrs. Gertrude Libby.

Mr. Richardson and party of Quincy, Mass. have the Walter Cullinan Camp for two weeks.

Clayton F. Murch has given up his job at Poland Spring and is working at the Norway Shoe Co.

A lady's hat was found on the Greenwood road, Thursday morning, by Roy Stearns and wife, when coming to the village. It is at the Advertiser Office awaiting its owner.

Court Proceedings

Proving Ownership of Lumber and Reckless Driving Were Matters Heard in Court This Week

In the Norway Municipal Court, Monday, in an act of trover, Chandler Merrill of Norway sought to recover from Fred Kilgore, also of Norway, the value of a quantity of lumber that Mr. Kilgore hauled away and alleged to be Merrill's property. It was charged that Ernest Wentworth, of Waterford, sold at least part of the lumber to Merrill, in exchange for labor.

Mr. Kilgore explained that he accepted the lumber from Mr. Wentworth as "boot" in an automobile deal, and when hauled to Norway, there was in the pile approximately 6500 feet, as agreed upon in the trade, and no more. Fixing dates was an important item during the hearing. W. G. Conary appeared for Mr. Merrill and E. F. Corliss of Bridgton for Mr. Kilgore. Judge Jones reserved his decision.

Driving an automobile with one arm on the steering wheel, the other around the waist of a fair companion, cost Emil G. Barrett of Oxford the sum of $15 and costs, Monday forenoon. The complainant, Office Harry O. Stimson, charged reckless driving in the fact that Main Street was crowded with traffic, Saturday evening, when he stopped the car. He ordered the young man to release his fair one and use both hands on the wheel. The respondent pleaded guilty, settled and was discharged.

John A. Carrigan of Providence, R. I., charged with reckless driving, pleaded not guilty. He was found guilty and settled a fine of $15 and costs. Officer Harry O. Stimson was the complainant. This was the outcome of a collision near the Falls bridge in Norway on Sunday, when the respondent nicked an auto driven by Albert Carroll, who attempted to park near the garage. In the mix-up the respondent came in contact with the garage and wrecked both his car and a corner of the building, besides inflicting damage to Carroll's machine. The occupants weer not seriously injured.

NORWAY'S DOLLAR DAY

Saturday, Aug. 21 is the big day for prudent shoppers. It is a time when the Norway merchants carefully arrange their stocks and put everything into apple pie order for hundreds of patrons sure to visit Norway for the money-saving Dollar Day. Liberal discounts is the rule for seasonable merchandise.

The dealers stand behind every purchase and are anxious to serve the public in the best possible manner—their reputation is at stake. It is not sound business to handle junk, even for one high pressure sale.

Several thousand four-page folders have been broadcast the past few days by the Norway Merchants' Association. The advertising tells a story of reduced prices that appeal to the thrifty and should be read carefully to appreciate the money-saving opportunity.

Additional salespeople will be on hand in anticipation of a large volume of business. Every courtesy will be extended to visitors who are urged to make the stores their headquarters while in town.

CAPT. CHAS. MASURY STRICKEN

Capt. Chas. F. Masury, aged 84, of Danvers, Mass., a member of a party at Bass Island, Lake Pennesseewassee, was stricken sometime Tuesday night and found practically helpless, Wednesday morning. Dr. B. F. Bradbury, who was called, found the aged man suffering from a slight shock and in a semi-conscious condition.

The party expected to break camp Wednesday and had everything ready to leave early that morning, but postponed their departure, owing to Mr. Masury's condition. There was little change during the day.

Capt. Masury retired in excellent health and during his vacation here the past ten days seemed to have gained strength. This was his 45th annual visit and he enjoyed every day of their stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Sargent are visiting his boyhood home at Searsport. This is the first visit there in nearly fifty years.

Milbury Paragard of Winchendon, Mass., has been the guest of his brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Myron Paragard. He also spent a few days with a sister, Mrs. Alvinza Proctor, in Auburn.

Miss Maud Ellen Pike was a guest at the Brower-Andrews wedding in Auburn, Monday, and assisted with the special music.

Miss Mae Wiley of Bethel and Fellsmere, Florida, who has been visiting with Mrs. Merritt Welch, and with Mrs. E. N. Anderson at South Paris, has gone to Portland. She intends to spend the winter in California.

The chemical extinguished a roof blaze Monday morning at Freeman C. Smith's house in Cummings Place. Evidently a spark from the chimney started a fire on the shingles that got some headway before the firemen arrived. An alarm from Box 17 called out most of the fire department, but hydrant service was not needed. Insurance covers the small loss.

Miss Marion Downing returned to her work, Monday, at the store of Fred S. Brown. Miss Downing attended the Y. P. S. C. U. Institute at Ferry Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin T. Miller of Newton, Mass., and Mr. Wilson, treasurer of the Babson Statistical Organization of Wellesley, who are spending this summer at Brown's camps, Lovell, made the office a pleasant call, Tuesday. Mrs. Wilson is an enthusiastic collector of Maine gems and a student of geology around this section of Maine. Mr. Miller's son, who enters Williams College this fall, is also at the camps and a student of the great outdoors in this section of the world.

Dr. Harry P. Jones has been entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Willits from Pennsylvania at the Jones cottage on Lake Pennesseewassee. Dr. Jones made the acquaintance of the Willets on the trip to Panama last winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Haines of Lynn, Mass., have bought a lot of Howard A. Knightly and are building a camp. Mr. and Mrs. Haines have been camping on the shore of Lake Pennesseewassee and so pleased with the location they decided to join the summer colony as regular ones.

Hugh Pendexter, Jr., and wife and son, Hugh, 3rd, of Peabody, Mass., arrived Friday for the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Pendexter.

Mrs. Mary Lewis, with Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Cooper of Mechanic Falls, are on an automobile trip to Nova Scotia, where they will visit relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto E. Loeschs and Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Keller of New York City, guests at Brown's Camps, Lovell, inspected Norway, Tuesday, and expressed themselves as delighted with the indications of thrift and business enterprises about town.

Mrs. Aaron Babb is at Mechanic Falls camp ground, attending the Adventist meetings. She expects to be gone about three weeks.

Obituary

Mrs. John A. Bumpus

Mrs. Sarah W. Bumpus, wife of John A. Bumpus, passed away August 12, at her home on Water Street, following several years of failing health. Her age was 76 years.

She was born in Stoneham, August 22, 1849, the daughter of Orin and Salome Durgin Walker. The family moved to Norway about 58 years ago and she attended the public schools. Forty-five years ago she married John A. Bumpus of this town and for many years they resided at the corner of Fair and Main street at the Falls. Some years ago they sold the place and bought the Eben Pottle farm on the southerly side of Pike Hill. Later they moved to the Hodgdon farm, but failing health caused them to sell and return to the village. They have for a number of years lived on the Norway Lake road, or upper Water Street. She was a member of the Norway Universalist Church.

Besides her husband, she leaves two sisters, Mrs. Alfred Whitehouse and Mrs. Frank Towne, both of Norway, and a son-in-law, Edward Philbrook, in Massachusetts.

Services were held Saturday at 4 p. m. at Spiller's Funeral Home. Rev. Chester G. Miller conducted the services. There were many beautiful flowers. Burial was in Norway Pine Grove Cemetery.

Mrs. Ella Jewett Cole

Mrs. Ella J. Cole, wife of Horace H. Cole of Norway, passed away, August 17, at Cookshire, Canada and the remains were brought to Norway, Wednesday. Mrs. Cole in company with her daughter, Miss Mina Jewett and Miss Frances Otte was on an automobile tour of several weeks before locating in White Plains, N. Y. Three days after leaving Norway she was stricken with illness and failed to rally.

The deceased was born in Springfield, Mass, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hinman. Her early life was passed in Waltham, Mass., and for several years she was a successful high school teacher in Cambridge, Mass.

She married Mr. Jewett and in 1891 the family came to Norway and resided in the Dr. Evan's house on Fair Street. Her husband passed away three years later. In 1897, she bought the Olcott Brown estate on Fair Street that has ever since been her home until the first of this month. In 1900, she was married to Horace H. Cole, who survives her.

Mrs. Cole was a member of Christ Episcopal church and one of the founders of the parish in Norway. For many years, she was active in the work of the Guild, the Missionary society and other activities of the church.

Beside her husband, she leaves a daughter, Miss Mina Jewett, R. N., of Norway and New York; a son, Dr. Stephen P. Jewett of Carmel, N. Y., and a sister, Mrs. George Clapp of Cambridge, Mass. One son, Joseph Jewett, a Spanish War Veteran, died several years ago.

A private funeral was held at Christ church, Thursday forenoon, Fr. Laughlin officiated. There was a committal service at Norway Pine Cemetery.

AUGUST METEOR DISPLAY COMES UP TO THE STANDARD

The well known August meteor shower, sometimes called the Perseids, the "Tears of St. Lawrence," made its appearance last week, as evidenced by the observations of the visiting astronomers at "Meda Lodge", Dr. Godfrey's camp on the Lake. Seated in a boat, anchored in the middle of the lake, the astronomers, facing North, East, South and West respectively, counted meteors to their heart's content, with nothing to disturb their serenity except the occasional splash of a black bass.

Tuesday, August 10th, the night of the predicted maxium display, was too cloudy to distinguish more than a few scattering shooting stars, but on Wednesday, the 11th, shortly before midnight, the display was well worth the watching. For an hour the meteors shot out from the constellation of Perseus at the rate of about one a minute, 55 having been counted, during this interval of time. During the first half hour, 22 were counted, and 33 during the last half hour.

These meteors, ranging in magnitude from those barely visible to the unaided eye to those of first magnitude, are of the moderately swift moving type, for in few cases do they last longer than two or three seconds. The sixth meteor seen in the course of the watch was of the stationary type, appearing only a few degrees distant from the bright star, Alpha Persei. It was of the second magnitude and moved over an area of less than half the diameter of the full moon, about one fourth of a degree. This stationary meteor was, therefore, very close to the radiant point, headed, so to speak, directly towards the observer.

Observations made by the camp radio experts as to the effect of the meteor discharges in the atmosphere failed to reveal any noticeable effect.

The Perseids are among the four best known meteor showers which cross the earth's path each year. The other three showers are known as the "Lyrids," due about April 20, the "Leonids," about November 13, and the "Andromedids," due about November 26th.

SILVER MAPLE HOGGING THE LOT

Annual Measurements taken of G. Julian Brown's silver maple tree, show a girth of 10 feet. Way back in 1900, Mr. Brown did his bit to beautify East Danforth street where he lives. He planted a sapling just 6 1-2 in. in circumference on the southerly corner of his lot. Evidently the soil was just what the doctor ordered, for the tree has flourished and grown to massive proportions. For several years, the average expansion around the waist line reached 6 inches, with a top growth that amazed the neighborhood.

The tree to day has some eight main branches, that shade a wide area, and tops that are probably seventy-five feet and more above ground.

Julian has a problem. The tree is crowding his residence off the lot and dumping a car load of leaves on the lawn every fall. Eventually it means swinging the axe or moving the house. "Guess I'll move" is his answer. "That tree is just like one of the family, even though it swamps the house and buries us in dead leaves."

Miss Margaret Browder and Miss Ruth Buckly, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Swain, left Tuesday, for their home in Knoxville, Tenn.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Browder of Sweet-Water, Tenn., are occupying the Cumming's camp at Goat Island.

Lake Pennesseewassee is holding at a high mark in spite of the dry spell and constant evaporation. Campers are happy as the wharfs can be used and beaches in excellent condition for water sports. Not many years ago in August, motor boats were unable to negotiate the bog from Crockett's Bridge to the public wharf, owing to low water.

Camping in School Grove

Shall We Not Have Sanitary Conditions and Add to the Tourists' Pleasure While Here?

A condition is arising which sooner or later must be met, and the sooner the better. At Norway Lake the School Grove is one of the beauty spots by Lake Pennesseewassee that is accessible to the public. Many are the picnics and camping parties selecting this location for a stop of a day or a few days and nights and is proving an ideal location, now that Gibson's Grove is barred for public camping.

Camping parties are on the increase each year and they want to camp near a lake, especially where one is as beautiful as is Lake Pennesseewassee.

At the School Grove there have been from one to ten camping parties located there nearly every day during the summer. This proves that tourists like the location and some are coming year after year to the same spot for a short stay. Now that the town owns the Grove, why not open up the school toilet and make the place sanitary, or build new ones especially for the grove? This question arises every little while and gets side-tracked. This grove is an ideal place for camping and could be put in order at not a big expense, with some resident of Norway Lake to have the care of the Grove.

We want the tourists to come to Norway, we advertise for them to come, we invite them to come, by sending boosting literature, but we fail to do a few of the essential things to make their stay pleasant while in our midst. They in turn patronize our stores, purchase provisions of our farmers and make friends and acquaintances with our people.

Is it not time to provide some place by the lake for our tourist campers? Think it over.

VETERAN PAPER MAKER DEAD

We are indebted to D. Cromett Clark of Winter Hill, Mass., for a clipping announcing the death of Albrecht Pagenstecher in his 88th year at Cornwell, N. Y. on August 8th. Mr. Pagenstecher is credited with having introduced into the United States the making of wood pulp, the basis of the present news print.

This item is of local interest, for the first pulp was ground in Norway. A. L. F. Pike, G. Julian Brown and Josiah T. Rowe, who were employed in the mill, well remembered the circumstances, from the beginning to the disastrous failure of the paper industry in town.

Mr. Pike recalls that about 1868, Mr. Pagenstecher came to town and hired the Jonathan Blake mill at Steep Falls, installed two revolving stones and ground poplar hauled in by the farmers. At first the product was shipped away. Pagenstecher was not a resident, but had two foreman a Mr. Noonan and Mr. Katon to look after affairs. He came after and conducted experiments for advancing the methods.

Some 2 years later the business was sold to the Norway Paper Co., comprising, John Parsons and A. L. Parsons, who owned the upper mill privilege, and Judson Morton. It is understood that Rice Rendall Co. of Boston backed the firm heavily and took all their product. Second-hand machinery was bought and installed on the first floor, while grinding pulp continued in the basement. A combination of rags and pulp went into paper. Mr. Pike recalls the proportion of ground poplar was about 25 percent, and a good quality was produced. Rags came in bales from Boston and stored in a building near by, now the Howe store. Mr. Pike has several coins that he found in pockets while sorting the goods.

Interest charges and overhead exceeded the profits and the concern collapsed in August, 1873. Great was the financial ruin and a host of mourners attended the last rites.

Mr. Pagenstecher located elsewhere after selling out here and in subsequent years, has developed many large pulp concerns. Whatever others may claim, Norway is certain the industry had its beginning here, for the methods were crude in an experimental stage.

The mill building lay idle for some years, their housed the first electric lighting system in town. Another period of idleness was broken when the Novelty Turning Co. commenced operations and carried on a thriving business, until in December 1922, the building and most of its contents were destroyed by fire.

Nothing remains of the foundation, but the embankment wall next the stream for the unsightly spot owned by the Central Maine Power Co., has been cleared for their electrical projects.

Norway Church Items

Universalist

Services will be held as usual, Sunday morning, at 9:30, but the name of the speaker has not yet been received.

Music will be furnished by the quartet from South Paris.

AUXILIARY MEETING

The American Legion Auxiliary Unit will hold its next meeting, Wednesday evening, August 25. Supper will be served the members of the Post and Unit at 6:30 o'clock, followed by business meetings. Many matters of importance will be considered, among them the reports of delegates, who attended the Department Convention recently held at Brunswick and the nomination of new officers.

Mrs. E. S. Cubberly and party from Elizabeth, N. J. are at the Cubberly camp for several weeks. They have Captain Sampson's motor boat, Ronomore, and despite the fact that the craft has floated in the lake for thirteen years, this is no Jinx. Mrs. Cubberly is having the best luck and out classing her predecessors, who have used the boat.

Mrs. Eleanor Mattor has returned from the hospital and is at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Downing. She is up and around and able to receive visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. Gibson and son of Elizabeth, N. J. have arrived for two weeks in the Callahan Camp.

Several tents pitched at Norway Lake grove are sheltering summer tourists. One party has quarters in a tent near Crockett's Bridge. All the camps are occupied.

Rev. Olin B. Tracy has been in town several days perfecting arrangements for the camp school of religious education at Winthrop to be held next week, sponsored by the Congregational denomination in this state. He is dean of the school.

Mrs. Hazel E. Conary was elected National Executive Committeewoman at the Annual Convention of the American Legion Auxiliary, Department of Maine, held at Brunswick, last week.

SOUTH PARIS NEWS

Clifford-Cates

Miss Helen Clara Cates of Skowhegan and Burton Kinney Clifford of South Paris were married in Augusta, Saturday afternoon, by Rev. A. T. McWhorter, pastor of the Congregational church, the impressive double ring service being used.

They were attended by the groom's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Earle R. Clifford of South Paris. The bride was attractively gowned in white, with black satin coat, squirrel trimmed, and large hat in harmony.

Mrs. Clifford is the eldest daughter of Tracey M. Cates of Skowhegan. She is a graduate of Gorham Normal School, where her musical talent, won for her great popularity. She has also pursued the study of music at Lasell Seminary in Auburndale, Mass. For the past two years she has been a successful teacher in the South Paris Junior High School.

Mr. Clifford is the youngest son of the late W. K. Clifford of South Paris, and is a graduate of Bates College. He is now employed by the DeLaval Separator Co., and is the company's special representative for the state of Maine.

Following the ceremony, the couple left by auto on a wedding trip to Quebec.

Miss Mary E. Swan

Miss Mary E. Swan passed away, Sunday morning, August 15, at the home of her brother, Howard A. Swan, where she has made her home for the past twelve years. Miss Swan was the daughter of the late Leander S. and Harriett DeCoster Swan, and was born, May 20, 1852. She was a member of the Baptist church, the Grange and the Ladies of the G. A. R.

She is survived by five brothers, James H. Swan of Bethel, Horace L. of South Paris, Eli J. of Portland, Ferdinand F. of Norway, and Howard A. of South Paris, and one sister, Mrs. Albert E. Dean of South Paris.

The funeral was held at 10:30, Tuesday, attended by the Rev. E. B. Tetley, and burial in Riverside Cemetery.

Getting Ready for County Fair

Improvements at Oxford County Fair grounds the past few weeks, are conspicuous, especially around the grand stand, where twenty boxes of different sizes have been erected in front of the reserved seat section. This is an addition of some 200 seats.

The picket fence between the stand and the track, has been removed and a woven wire fence set back some four feet. This arrangement allows more room on the track near the judges' stand, and will permit horses to score five abreast. The band stand has been moved toward the upper end and nearly opposite the stage.

The vaudeville stage has been enlarged to standard size 30 x 40 feet with room enough for any open air act, performed on the stage. Improvements in the dressing rooms underneath will be appreciated by the performers.

Considerable shingling has been done and the horse sheds will have new covering on the roof before fair time.

Three-Quarter Century Club

The second annual state meeting will be held at Augusta, August 30. Mrs. Leslie L. Mason of South Paris is general chairman for Oxford County and has appointed the following town chairmen:

HORSE FUEL

The quantity of feed for the work horse depends on the amount of work done and on the speed at which it is performed. A horse requires considerable more feed when working at the trot than at the walk. A good rule, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture, is to allow 1 1-10 pounds of grain and 1 1-5 pounds of hay per 100 pounds live weight for horses at moderate work. At this rate a 1,200-pound horse would require 13 pounds of grain and about 14 1-2 pounds of hay per day. The horse at hard work requires 1 1-4 to 1 1-3 pounds of grain per 100 pounds live weight; the hay fed should not be more than 1 1-4 pounds, per 100 pounds live weight. The exact quantity will depend largely on the individuality of each horse.

PASTRY

Pastry is certainly a New England food. Who considers a Thanksgiving or Christmas dinner complete without pie? While the homemaker, who is providing meals suitable for children as well as adults are trying to introduce more simple puddings and fruit, the homes consisting of adults still cling to their pies. For this reason one should know how to make good pastry, i. e. light, flaky, tender.

There are two kinds of pastry: plain pastry and puff pastry. Puff pastry is never used for undercrusts for it rises or puffs up too much. It is sometimes used for rims or upper crusts of rich pies. It is used for tarts, pastry shells to hold creamed meat mixtures and for various shapes which are to be frosted or decorated for parties.

The ingredients for both are the same flour, salt, baking powder, shortening and cold water. In plain pastry any shortening may be used while part, if not all butter is used in puff pastry. The kind of paste determines the amount of shortening and flour. Plain paste, 1-4 cup shortening to 1 cup flour; rich pastry, 1-3 cup shortening to 1 cup flour; puff pastry 2 cups shortening to 2 cups flour. The directions for mixing and precautions in handling hold true in all cases.

What Makes Good Pastry?

To make pastry, pastry flour and the best shortenings are essential. The lightness depends upon the amount of air enclosed and the expansion of the air in baking. The flakiness depends upon the kind and amount of shortening used. Lard makes a more tender crust than butter, but does not have the flavor given by the butter. Any vegetable fats or oils may be ued. In using oil, time is saved by mixing the oil and water together. Use 1-4 to 1-3 less oil than lard or other compounds. The oil blends with the flour more evenly, making a crust which is tender but not flaky. With a hard fat the particles are distributed unevenly and appear to act as a film. This film keeps the moist flour apart, thus making it flaky. The lightness depends upon the amount of air enclosed. The baking powder is not necessary but may be added. By forming gas, it causes the dough to expand and so helps to make it light. One-fourth teaspoon to one cup of flour is plenty.

Manner of Mixing

The dry ingredients, flour, salt and baking powder are sifted together. The fat is then added. If this is cut in with two knives it will tend to be more flaky, for the flour and fat are not so evenly blended.

The amount of water to be added varies with the dryness of the flour and the amount of fat. The water should, however, be ice cold so that the dough will be heated through a greater range of temperature and thus expand more. Just enough water is added to make the dough stick together.

Flour is sprinkled on the board and the paste patted into a round, flat shape. Just enough flour is used to keep paste from sticking. The dough is then "rolled lightly" from the center outward. If pressure is exerted it makes the mass compact which tends to toughen it. The same thickness is to be kept at the edges, as in the center.

Bake in Hot Oven

Pastry should be baked in a hot oven. When it begins to brown the temperature can be reduced. In juicy pies, sogginess may be prevented by dusting the lower crust with dry flour, egg white, or partly baking the crust. Flour may be mixed with the sugar in case of berry pies to prevent "running over" in the oven. Use 1 T. flour to 1-2 C. sugar.

Other Uses of Plain Paste

Deep tarts are a variation. Roll the same as for pie crust, cut out with a cookie cutter. Press each bottom of inverted muffin tins. Prick the bottoms with a fork. Place in oven until crisp and brown. Remove from tins and fill with pie fillings, marmalades, preserves or creamed meat or fish.

Cheese Straws

The scraps of the pie crust may be used cheese straws. Roll to 1-4 inch thickness. Cover with layer of finely cut cheese. Press it in lightly, sprinkle with salt and paprika. Now fold paste so as to have three layers. Roll again to 1-4 inch thickness cut in strips 5 x 1-4. Bake in hot oven till well browned.

Tea Cakes

A number of attractive tea cakes may be made using plain paste as foundation. Roll to 1-4 inch thickness. Cut in desired shapes. Spread with any desirable mixture as: sugar and cinnamon, jam or meringue. Bake in quick oven. Generally speaking, it is better to cook shaped pieces first and then spread with mixture. Some will need to be returned to the oven for a few minutes to brown.

THE SUNKEN GARDEN

Many times I had read about sunken gardens, but up to this time had never seen one. Leaving the Cliff House in Ogunquit, Maine, one morning in July, I was bent on seeing a bit of the coast, all by myself. The sky was overcast, a few drops of rain fell from time to time, but clad in slicker and rain hat, crepe soled shoes, why should I care? It was an ideal day to explore, cool and the surf was lovely.

I went across the woods, over the board walks in meadow, flowers on every hand, wild roses, morning glories, hardhack, lilies, and even golden rod, showing a bit yellow already, reminding us that the autumn would soon be here.

Coming to the road near the golf course I kept to the highway, with my eyes open for any new sight. Soon I noticed a deserted cottage, back in the pines, windows shuttered, everything showing no one had visited the place this year. I went in through the lane, it was a very nice place. Rambler roses and honeysuckle were climbing over the piazza in a riot of loveliness. I went along toward the garage, or help quarters, which were also tightly closed. There were ornamental shrubs and trellises and near one, I noticed a flight of steps leading down, the shrubbery nearly meeting across them. I pushed through and went down and beheld a beautiful sight—a real sunken garden—two arches were covered with ramblers, of a pink, covered its arch completly, and great clusters hung down. I could just reach them. There were stocks, sweet williams, lilies of all shades and arranged in rows.

The grass here was mowed, showing that someone, probably a neighbor, was looking after the place, a bit. This was, however, the only evidence of it. I gathered a small bouquet, and finding a path up over the ascent on the other side, came back to the road, and on to fresh scenes, and as I walked along, I wondered where the loving hearts and hands were, that first planned that garden and built the lovely summer house in the pines. Changes and transformations are constantly coming to us all, its life. Let us go forward each day, doing our duty as we see it, seizing each opportunity to find enjoyment in the right way, trusting that God in His wisdom, will show us the right way and help us to meet whatever there is in store for us in the way He would have us do—

The roses grow as they used to do
Under the skies so deep and blue,
Showing that hands both fond and true,
Tended them once, and the lilies, too.
—Mollie.

Pessimists are always in the rear, and never in the van in the march of progress. Your successful men and women are never chronic grumblers.

Blow not into a flame the spark which is kindled between two friends. They are easily reconciled, and will both hate you.

DODGE BROTHERS
DE LUXE SEDAN
People select motor cars by different standards.
Some desire luxury and ostentation. Others, utility and economy alone.
Dodge Brothers De Luxe Sedan strikes a fine and distinguished balance—both in appearance and price—between these two extremes.
It provides unusual comfort and roominess; a refinement of line and design in which the owner takes deep pride; and everywhere in the world the name it bears is associated with the highest standards of integrity and workmanship.
With reasonable care, the De Luxe Sedan serves its owners for years, frequently delivers mileage running well into six figures, and on the resale market brings prices that strikingly reflect the solid value Dodge Brothers have built into it.

MAINE SCHOOL OF COMMERCE WILL EXPAND

Three new Maine Schools of Commerce are to open in September, under the direction of Principal H. W. Mann, founder of the institution.

New schools will be opened this fall at Portland, Bangor, and Augusta, where central locations have been secured. Bangor and Augusta will receive students, Wednesday, after Labor Day, and accommodations at Portland will be ready Sept. 13.

The Maine School of Commerce was founded early in July, 1916, and in ten years has become the largest commercial school in the state—more than 260 students having been enrolled during the school year ending June 25, 1926. Ninety Maine cities and towns were represented during this period, and students were also admitted from most of the New England states and from Canada. In fact, Ontario, New Brunswick, and Nova Scotia are already represented in the long list of students now registered for the September term.

THE TEN COMMANDMENTS—DUTIES TO GOD

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 20:1-11.
GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thine heart, with all thy soul and with all thy strength.
PRIMARY TOPIC—The Commandments About God.
JUNIOR TOPIC—How to Serve God.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Loving and Honoring God.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—God's Claims to Loving Service.

The Ten Commandments furnish us with the greatest moral code that the world has ever seen.

I. The Preface to the Decalogue (vv. 1, 2).

The Ten Commandments are based upon the truth set forth in the preface. Two great thoughts underlie this. What the Lord is and what He did. What He is is embodied in the name Jehovah-Elohim. The name Jehovah sets forth three great truths, viz.:

1. His all-sufficiency. All that He is and does centers in Himself.

2. His sovereignty. There is no being equal to Him, nor above Him. He is outside of and above every being in the universe. He is immanent and transcendant.

3. His unchangeableness. The "I am that I am" (Ex. 3:14) may be expanded into "I am what I was," "I will be what I am," "Jesus Christ is the same yesterday, today and forever (Heb. 13:8). The name Elohim signifies the strong and mighty one. What He did is asserted to be their deliverance from Egyptian bondage.

II. The First Commandment (v. 3).

"Thou shalt have no other gods before Me" means literally, "Thou shalt have no other gods before My face." This commandment requires single-hearted worship and service. Every man has his god. It is either the true God or a false god. Life itself with all its activity is worship. The center around which our activities revolve is our God. This commandment may be broken:

1. By living for one's self. If one's activities gather around himself he worships himself and is therefore an idolater.

2. By making pleasure the goal of our lives and spending our time and money for sensual enjoyment.

3. By being covetous (Col. 3:5). Every man who is greedy for gold breaks this commandment.

III. The Second Commandment (vv. 4-6).

The first commandment is directed against false gods. The second is directed against the worship of the true God with false forms. This commandment may be broken:

1. By resorting to the use of crosses and images in our worship.

2. By putting into the place of Christ the pope and following after priestcraft. It should be observed that this commandment is accompanied with a warning and a promise. The warning is that iniquity will be visited upon the children even to the third and fourth generation. The promise is that He will show mercy to thousands. This means that the workings of the same divine law will pass on God's mercy to thousands of generations.

IV. The Third Commandment (v. 7).

The Hebrew word translated "vain" in this prohibition against taking the name of God in vain means lying, deceptive, unreal. Therefore, to take the name of God in vain means to use it in a lying, deceptive and unreal way. The word "guiltless" is from a Hebrew word, the root-meaning of which is to be clean, to go unpunished. The meaning, therefore, is that God will not hold such a man to be clean and will not allow him to go unpunished who takes the divine name in a lying and hypocritical way.

The third commandment may be broken:

1. By profanity.
2. By perjury.
3. By levity and frivolity.
4. By hypocrisy, which is professing to live for God when living for self.

V. The Fourth Commandment (vv. 8-11).

The essential principle embodied in this commandment is work and rest. It enjoins work on six days and forbids work on the seventh. The command to work six days is just as binding as the rest on the seventh. Only those who have worked can really rest. This commandment may be broken:

1. By living in idleness.
2. By working on the day set apart for the worship of God.
3. By making it a day of feasting.
4. By devoting it to pleasure and games.

Trusting in God

An individual heart, which worships God alone, and trusts Him as it should, is raised above all anxiety for earthly wants.—Geikie.

Every Sin a Mistake

Every sin is a mistake as well as a wrong; and the epitaph for a sinner is: "Thou Fool."—Maclaren.

Men of Secret Prayer

The men whom God uses most are men of secret prayer.

STATE OF MAINE

Oxford, ss.

To the Honorable Justices of the Supreme Judicial Court to be held at Paris, within and for said County of Oxford, on the second Tuesday of October, A. D. 1926.

Respectfully Represents, M. Louise Staples Adell, resident at Rumford, in the County of Oxford and State of Maine that she was lawfully married to Fredric C. Adell of Parts unknown, at Canton in the County of Oxford and State of Maine on the 30th day of June, A. D. 1920, by Rev. Frank Lamb, duly authorized to solemnize marriages therein;

That the Libellant and Libellee cohabited in this State after their said marriage;

That the Libellant resided in this State when the cause of divorce accrued as hereinafter set forth;

That the Libellant has resided in this State in good faith for one year prior to the commencement of these proceedings;

That the Libellee is a resident of this State;

That the Libellant has ever been faithful to her marriage obligations, but that the said Libellee has been unmindful of the same;

That there is no collusion between your Libellant and the said Libellee to obtain a divorce;

That on the twenty-second day of February A. D. 1923, said Libellee utterly deserted your Libellant without reasonable cause and has continued said desertion for three consecutive years next prior to the filing of this libel;

That being of sufficient ability and being able to labor and provide for her, said Libellee grossly, wantonly and cruelly refuses or neglects to provide suitable maintenance for your Libellant;

That since marriage the said Libellee has been addicted to gross and confirmed habits of intoxication from the use of intoxicating liquors, opium or other drugs;

That said Libellee has been guilty of extreme cruelty toward your said Libellant;

That the said Libellee has been guilty of cruel and abusive treatment toward your said Libellant as follows: so that her health has been impaired thereby.

That no children have been born to them during their said marriage.

Wherefore, your Libellant prays that a divorce from the bonds of matrimony between herself and the said Libellee may be decreed, and that her name be changed to M. Louise Staples, which was her maiden name.

And your Libellant further alleges that the residence of said Libellee is unknown to your Libellant and cannot be ascertained by reasonable diligence.

Dated at Norway, this sixth day of August, A. D. 1926.

M. LOUISE STAPLES ADELL, Libellant.

STATE OF MAINE

Oxford, ss. Aug. 6th, A. D. 1926.

Personally appeared M. Louise Staples Adell above named Libellant and made oath that the foregoing allegation as to the residence of the Libellee is true.

Before me,
ALBERT J. STEARNS,
Justice of the Peace.

STATE OF MAINE

County of Oxford, ss.

Supreme Judicial Court, in Vacation. August 9, A. D. 1926.

Upon the Foregoing Libel, ORDERED, That the Libellant give notice to the said Fredric C. Adell to appear before the Justice of our Supreme Judicial Court, to be holden at Paris, within and for the County of Oxford, on the second Tuesday of October, A. D. 1926, by publishing an attested copy of said libel, and this order thereon, three weeks successively in the Norway Advertiser, a newspaper printed in Norway, in our County of Oxford, the last publication to be 30 days at least prior to said second Tuesday of October, 1926, that he may there and then in our said Court appear and show cause, if any he have, why the prayer of said Libelant should not be granted.

SCOTT WILSON,
Chief Justice of the Sup. Jud. Court.

A true copy of the libel and order of court thereon. 33-35

"INSIDE" INFORMATION

Loose long sleeves, open at the wrist, are most becoming to fleshy arms. Trimmings and construction lines should follow the length of the arm.

Rice and potatoes are not exactly the same in food value, even though they are both rich in starch. Potatoes contain some minerals and vitamins. Milled rice lacks these entirely, so there should be plenty of fruits and vegetables in the daily meals if rice is served often.

Do not use clothespins when hanging out rayon underwear after washing it. You may tear the material. Hang the garment over the line without pinning it.

Try adding currant jelly to lamb gravy.

Expose samples of wash materials to the sun's rays before buying such fabrics. Cover half the sample with a piece of cardboard, and after a week see how much the uncovered part has faded or changed.

WHAT A PITY

That the tobacco habit cannot be cured, as hams are, by smoking.

That a man can't get through poverty as fast as he can run through a fortune.

That a young fellow cannot harvest his wild oats and make a new breakfast food.

That we cannot meet emergencies by appointment; we wouldn't have to learn so much.—Boston Transcript.

Church Rededication

Waterford Church to be Rededicated August 29th

The editor of "The Outlook," Rev. Ernest Hamlin Abbott, of New York, is to preach at the service of rededication in the First Church at Waterford, Sunday morning, August 29th, at half past ten o'clock. Mr. Abbott belongs to the famous Abbott family so well known in the history or Maine; and his mother was born in Waterford, daughter of Hannibal Hamlin and cousin of Cyrus Hamlin, the missionary founder of Robert College.

The Waterford church, which was built ninety years ago, has been restored to look as far as possible as it looked when it was finished. The foundations have been relaid, the old windows restored and the walls and woodwork re-painted. Electric lights have been installed. One of the fixtures is a very old candle fixture electrified, and the others are copies. The church possesses various interesting relics of other days.

The Waterford people invite their friends in Norway and other places to join them in the service of rededication.

Guests at Camp Medar

Dr. Godfrey Entertaining Noted Astronomers, Radio Experts and Others

Doctor Charles C. Godfrey of Bridgeport, Conn., is entertaining at Camp Medar on the lake, the following noted scientists: Professor J. Ernest G. Golden of Aconia, N. J., President of the American Association of Variable Star Observers, and the Camp Culinary Department, Professor Leon Campbell, of the staff of the Harvard College Observatory, Cambridge, Mass., a noted authority on Variable stars. Professor Campbell is the assistant cook at Camp and an early riser, which does not add to his popularity.

Professor Louis G. Pacent of New York, electrical engineer and radio expert, and inventor. Thanks to Prof. Pacent, the Camp radio equipment is the last word and over 30 stations have contributed to the babel of sound that permeates the Camp. The irreverant astronomers, when engaged in their abstruse discussions, have not always appreciated the jazz music.

F. H. Bran of New York City, is also a guest at Camp. Mr. Bran is president of the synidicate Merchandise Corporation of New York and noted authority in salesmanship.

William Tyler Olcott of Norwich, Conn. Secretary of the American Association of Variable Star Observers, tries to keep order in the Camp and it is a hard job. Astronomers are obstinate and unreasonable critters. Housekeeping at the Camp has been reduced to a science. No loss of motion can be detected in any detail.

The astronomers were very keen over the recent display of meteors and observed 55 Perseid meteors in one hour the night of the 10th. No special radio disturbance due to the meteors could be detected.

The Doctor and Professor Golden are expert fly fishermen and the bass are rapidly disappearing from the laks. The party are greatly enjoying the genial Doctor's hospitality and gradually solving the really deep problems of the Universe to their own dissatisfaction. They all, however, agreed that the Doctor is an ideal host and Lake Pennesseewassee is the jewel lake of Maine.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph G. Norwood and daughter, Miss Ruth, and son, Paul, of Lowell, Mass., are spending a three weeks vacation at the Swan cottage at the Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Leighton and son, Richard, and Howard Davidson. all of Lowell, Mass., called on friends in town Thursday and Friday. They were enjoying a week's camping trip through Maine and New Hampshire. The Leightons lived in Norway some eighteen years ago.

Mrs. Alice Marston went to Rumford, Wednesday, where she will be the guest of her sister, Mrs. F. P. Putnam, for a few weeks.

The flying squadron of Republican leaders touring Oxford County this week arrived in town Tuesday at 3:45 p. m., about on schedule time. Some ten automobiles were in the party which included Ex-Gov. Percival Baxter, who represented Gov. Brewster. Senator Chas. B. Carter. Mrs. Eva Mason of Dover-Foxcroft, Walter Morse, of Rumford, county chairman of the Republican committee, and Wm. J. Flannagan of Rumford, Republican candidate for County Attorney and Sam Connors of the Lewiston Journal. Several local leaders and other citizens greeted the party at the Muncipal Court Rooms, where a short meeting was held. They left about 4 o'clock for South Paris.

Miss Gertrude Gardner and Miss Elizabeth O. Lasselle and Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Gates motored to Buckfield and the Sumners, Saturday, for the day. Miss Lasselle was the guest of Miss Gardner at the latter's summer home on Pike Hill, Saturday night.

Norway's Famous Literary Men

C. F. Whitman Writes of the Authors Who Have Made Their Home in Norway at Some Time.

A gentleman of literary tastes and culture, from Chicago, recently called upon the writer to obtain some information relating to his ancestors, who were among the early settlers. About the first question he asked, after stating his errand to me, was this:

"Who are the men who have made your town famous, and what have they done, or produced, worthy of mention that is really lasting?"

"If it interests you," I answered, "I will briefly tell you."

Sylvanus Cobb, Jr., was a story writer of note in his day. He was the son of a doctor of Divinity, born in Norway, who was himself a writer on religious subjects, and a famous preacher. The son wrote "The Gunmaker of Moscow" in the upper story of the building on the corner of Main and Whitman Streets, now occupied by Frank Murdock. It made him famous. It was written for the New York Ledger, which his productions chiefly made financially sound. It is said that Cobb's writings, which he continued to his death in the '30's, put a million of dollars into Robert Bonner's pockets. The Ledger was extensively read by the common people. His writings taught a patriotic devotion to the cause of liberty, maintenance of the Union, love of country, and in domestic relations.

Dr. Charles A. Stephens, living at Norway Lake Village, with his charming wife, called the belle of the town and a famous singer in the capitols of Europe and the larger cities in this country, for over half a century, has been occupying a field peculiarly his own. This is stories for boys and girls. The older people, too, are delighted with them. They were written for the Youth's Companion and have been published in book form. He is a Doctor of Medicine, scientist, a biologist, etc. I cannot tell you the many subjects he is master of and has written about. Doctor Stephens has made "the old Squire's farm" on Upton Ridge a famous place. The old Squire was his grandfather. His wife, Ruth Bradbury, is one of the noted characters on the farm. The author, who modestly puts himself in the background, of course is an actor there. Around him are gathered several boys and girls, who assist in carrying on the farm, indoors and out. One might suppose they were brothers and sisters. Not so. They belong to different families in the vicinity, or are fictitious. His hero is "Addison," was a real person, his closest mate off stage—Addison Verrill, whom he made his hero and leader in all enterprises and escapades. "Theodora" I suppose to be Dora M. Stevens, his first wife's sister, who married George E. Horr and "Ellen" the youngest sister of that name, who married John H. French. Both have passed away.

One is somewhat disappointed that nearly all of the young folks' schemes failed and that the gypsy scoundrels who waylaid the boys and stole a part of the dressed meat while on the way to a market at Portland, escaped punishment, as also the liquor seller at the "Corner."

There is a lack of romance in the stories. The most thrilling episode was the fighting of fire in the "Great Meadows" by Addison and Dora. They were aided by a timely shower, but Dora's help was invaluable. Success could not have been attained without her assistance.

The Doctor's style in telling a story is equal to any of the great masters of the art. His quiet humor is best seen in the way the young folks got rid of "Uncle Elnathan" and his wife "Aunt Salome," when the old Squire and grandmother Ruth were away on the visit and the giving to "Elder Witham," by the head of the household, a dose of vermifuge by mistake, for elderberry wine. The effect of this slip is not described, but it is stated that the Elder did not preach his accustomed sermon at the Chapel.

The Doctor is constantly receiving communications—some as far as California and Oregon—making inquiries about his writings. Many of our people, as he lives out of our village, and has spent very much of his time in the Youth's Companion office in Boston, do not know him. He is a very genial man to meet, a true friend and a type of the best of New England citizenship.

Don C. Seitz is one of the very best political and biographical writers of the day. For years he was the business manager of the New York World. His father was the ablest preacher of the Universalist faith I have ever known. His son has traveled extensively in Europe and has had a larger acquaintance with public men than any other writer of his time. I hope to see from his pen: "The Public Men I Have Known." Mr. Seitz, we all call him "Don" because everybody likes him, has written many books. His last works are: "Uncommon Americans" and "The Dreadful Decade." There is nothing like his style in any writings I ever read. I peruse his writings with the greatest delight. There is nothing quite like it.

Hugh Pendexter is also an author who has written many stories for the magazines and books. He is making much money, they say. I have not seen any of his productions and cannot speak of his style.

There are two young men who give promise of distinguished literary careers. Victor Whitman, my grandson, just out of college, has written several stories for the magazines. One of them said "Mr. Whitman is a newcomer in the ranks of fiction writers, and his success is evidence that there always is room for the aspirant that can deliver the goods.

Arthur Bartlett, a graduate of Bowdoin, has been connected with the Boston Herald for several years. He has recently written a baseball story, I hear, which has been published in book form that is said to be of exceptional merit.

The stranger said that he was much interested at what had been stated about Norway authors and their writings, but was anxious to obtain certain information relating to some of his ancestors, which we found, to his great satisfaction, as one of them of his family name was a Revolutionary soldier, which he had no idea of.

Captain Charles Douglass for years a familiar figure on Umbagog Lake, was in town Saturday, before going into the mill business at Durant, Vt. The Captain was raised in Bethel and as a youth had a strong leaning toward machinery. Shifting for himself he found employment on the lake boat and years later, carried on business in the Bethel Chair Co. building.

W. B. Marston—"Stealing plants and flowers from a grave is about the lowest type of vandalism. Two plants have been removed from my lot in Norway Pine Grove cemetery and some day I may find the guilty parties. There is a law for such cases."

Leon A. French has moved his family from the Tubb's house on Cottage street to the Clark tenement on Water street.

The meteorie shower, radiating from the constellation Pegasus, was observed by local amateur astronomers. The annual display commenced, August 10, but not a spectacle to attract the notice of a casual observer. One person scanning the heavens for a time after 9 P. M., counted falling stars at the rate of one a minute. This display continued for several nights, but haze or clouds spoiled the show.

OTISFIELD

Charles Hancock and wife and daughter of Melrose, Mass., have been visiting relatives in Harrison and Otisfield the past week. On their way home last Friday they called on Mrs. Rose Edwards.

Don Carlos

ARTICLE WRITTEN BY RICHARD DALTON FOURTH ESTATE

Don Carlos Seitz was born to set the whole world right, just as Hamlet was. He did it with the aid of Joseph Pulitzer, for years and years. Nature seems to have made him a critic of the human race, yet, as Whistler used to say, "Why drag in Nature?" In going through life he has found one perfect man, D. C. S., whose autobiography he ought to write. He has penned the life of everyone else, so he may find time to do justice to one whom he admires above all the children of men.

He really ought to do so, for the newspaper shops alone, because there has come into journalism this younger generation which even "knew not Joseph" and it may think of Don C. Seitz only as a magazine editor with a scold in a sore head.

Origin of His Name

Don Carlos Seitz, born in 1862, was named after a Bourbon pretender to the Spanish throne, who in the "Sixties" was asserting that neither time nor tide, nor high nor low, could keep him from his own. It is a mistake to confuse Don Seitz, with Don Quixote, though there may seem some resemblance between the two. People often got names for children out of the newspapers, for the press printed a great deal about European affairs, which, of course, they do not do now, or so Mr. Seitz has been telling us in the Outlook. If there had been comic strip characters in 1862, who knows what the name of the "subject of this sketch" might have been!

So He Went Away

When he felt that Portage in Ohio was a good place to be from, Don Carlos Seitz took his parents resolutely to a Maine village called Norway, not far from Denmark, and a few miles from Kennebunk, or was it Bunker's Neck? You may not have noticed Norway, Maine on the map, but it has been there at least since 1880, the date of the Seitz graduation from the Liberal Institute.

In the same year, too, by the way, the late Frank A. Munsey, born at Mercer, Maine, left for New York City.

Young Seitz shook the pine needles from his feet several years later, started for New York, but landed in Brooklyn, which was not then in the Metropolis at all, although Brooklyn men were putting "N. Y." on their trunks when they were traveling anywhere in particular.

There Don Carlos Seitz claimed his own in the newspaper "game" on the staff of the Brooklyn Eagle. He reported plays of the amateur theatrical clubs and the ladies' reading circles; also covered police and Coney Island and Canarsie.

His talent really for politics and in 1887-89 he was the Eagle's Albany correspondent and one of the best legislative reporters at the state capitol. His keen insight, his grasp of news, and his quick understanding of men, made him city editor of the Eagle in 1889, a post which he held for the next two years.

Stayed a Whole Year

Then came the starting of the New York Recorder, the principal founder, being the head of a lithographing house, who believed in colored pictures and had not gripped the idea that success in the New York newspaper field required millions going out and little coming in for years.

Don Carlos Seitz stayed as assistant publisher of the now long-defunct Recorder for an entire consecutive year. His energy and talent, spent so prodigally while the founders were suffering over the expense accounts, as though all the red ink used were their own heart's blood, attracted the notice of Joseph Pulitzer, who called him to take charge of a new venture in journalism, the Brooklyn World.

Brooklyn was still on its own as an independent city, when Don Seitz was plucking tail feathers from the old Eagle until she screamed for help. He knew the city; the Talmage Tabernacle, the Gawanus Canal, the Amaranth Dramatic Club and Sheepshead Bay included. Under his regime, the Brooklyn edition flourished as the green rubber tree.

Next, Don Carlos, still claiming other realms, took a hand in advertising. He knew but little about it and told that little well. His incisive mind, his executive ability and his gift for politics, both official and office,, advanced him, in 1898 from advertising manager of the Brooklyn edition, to manager of the New York World.

For twenty-five years he sat in on the ground floor and held sway up to the tip of the shining minaret of the Gold Dome. He did not sit on the throne, but from behind it he wielded "a mighty power." Editors and managing editors came and went, star writing men demanded higher salaries; the Iron Ball rolled, and he helped roll it. Thus through the years, sat Don Carlos Seitz—alert, masterful, pitiless, playing his own game, close to the umbilicus; meeting wiles with smiles.

Enter Magazine Field

The death of Joseph Pulitzer, the coming of his sons into their inheritance, a score of circumstances wrought a change in the Carlist destiny. Finally, Mr. Seitz in 1923, became manager of the Evening World. At the beginning of the present Year. of Grace, he slipped from daily journalism and entered into the magazine fold.

He did not make a sudden shift. Besides the hard-bitten, hard-headed, hard-boiled Don C. Seitz, cherishing his friends punishing his enemies, even to the third and fourth edition, there is that suave litterateur, Don Carlos Seitz, romancer, teller of tales, essayist, pundist and poet.

Wrote and Wrote and Wrote

In the past two toilful decades, Mr. Seitz has been producing a book a year. He was a regular author, working through the long nights in his home in Brooklyn, while enacting Atlas for the Pulitzers First, he dramatized his vacations

Thus through the years, sat Don Carlos Seitz—alert, masterful, pitiless, playing his own game, close to the umbilicus; meeting wiles with smiles.

Enter Magazine Field

The death of Joseph Pulitzer, the coming of his sons into their inheritance, a series of circumstances wrought a change in the Carlist destiny. Finally, Mr. Seitz in 1923, became manager of the Evening World. At the beginning of the present Year of Grace, he slipped from daily journalism and entered into the magazine fold.

He did not make a sudden shift. Besides the hard-bitten, hard-headed, hard-boiled Don C. Seitz, cherishing his friends punishing his enemies, even to the third and fourth edition, there is that suave litterateur, Don Carlos Seitz, romancer, teller of tales, essayist, pundist and poet.

Wrote and Wrote and Wrote

In the past two toilful decades, Mr. Seitz has been producing a book a year. He was a regular author, working through the long nights in his home in Brooklyn, while enacting Atlas for the Pulitzers.

First, he dramatized his vacations abroad in his "Discoveries in Every-Day Europe" and "Elba and Elsewhere", and "Surface Japan." Being rather kindly disposed to the former rovers of the Spanish Main, he produced "The Buccaneers" and "The Black Flag."

A Whistler Enthusiast

His "Unusual Americans" consists of sketches of the quaintly great. Several books on James McNeill Whistler also are to his credit, for he was an indefatigable collector of stories about and by that egocentric genius and artist. His passion for biography is shown in his, "Paul Jones," and his "Campaigns in the English Seas," "Letters from Francis Parkman," "Artemus Ward," "Braxton Bragg" and finally in a life of his former employer, Joseph Pulitzer. And he has breathed forth several books of excellent poetry such as, "Praises of War" "Farm Voices" and "Brains in Chains."

The Carlist literary gifts were recognized at old William and Mary College by an honorary membership in the parent chapter of the fellowship of the learned, Phi Beta Kappa. St. Lawrence University conferred on him the degree of Master of Arts, and Bowdoin College made him a Doctor of Literature. His status in letters was also recognized by his election to the presidency of the Authors' Club.

Bee Has Nothing On Him

Since leaving the grind for daily newspaper work, Mr. Seitz has been as busy as a syndicate, turning out the offerings from his unfettered soul. Becoming an associated editor of the Outlook Magazine, Don Carlos Seitz has been lashing the sins and foibles of all mankind.

The political iniquity of the Seventies is held up to shame in "The Dreadful Decade" in a way which tells plainly enough that time was not the age of innocence, after all, and that even Rutherford B. Hayes was not so good as he was gray.

Early this year, Don Carlos Seitz has been lashing modern journalism with whips and with scorpions. How his vision has changed! When he wrote his, "Training for the Newspaper Trade," just a decade since, he referred to journalism as a lofty calling.

In speeches back in 1914 and 1916 he told how incorruptible was the press; how uncontrolled by capital; how the more advertisements it received, the more independent and generally noble it was; and how no consideration could stir it from its firm resolve to print the news without fear nor favor.

Since becoming a magazinist, however, Mr. Seitz has been informing all men that the war has demoralized journalism. When the struggle was on, and for long years after the curtain went down on the tragedy of Europe, he kept silent about all this. Not until he left newspaper circles, evidently, could he bring himself to speak his mind.

Then Came a Change

He depicts a newspaper editor as grown plump in purse and person, though advertising, as a member of the "What's the Use Club." No longer do editors seek exclusive news stories, and as a whole, our press pays so little heed to important matters, that he gets just as good, if not better news, by reading his favorite Japanese journal which he gets from Kobe twenty days late.

What changes have taken place in just one dreadful decade! It began with all editors being pure in heart, and ended with their having acquired a greed for gain! Before Don C. Seitz became Don Carlos Seitz, everybody on the editorial staff of newspapers was happy and free.

Three-fifths of the income of the papers were given to the writers and the news gatherers who made them organs of public opinion. Now he finds only hirelings who get somewhat less than the union compositors.

Once the newspapers were good because they got so much advertising; now they are the worse for having that same much. They are comic strip purveyors, given to sound and funny pages, and crossword puzzles, and with two exceptions (The New York Times and The Boston Transcript) seem total futilities, not "antilities," as Don used to call them. Why, he does not even except The New York World, the character of which he himself helped to form for a quarter of a century.

Broke Out in a New Spot

Another manifestation of the coldly critical view which this Don Carlos Seitz has displayed is his adverse criticism of the late Frank A. Munsey, as a wrecker of newspapers. Might it not be a public service to put out of existence all newspapers, if they are anything nearly as bad as the talented author says? His imputation that Mr. Munsey "tested his property to destruction" out of malice does seem carrying analysis a bit far. However, now that Don Carlos is in the magazine field, he might be expected to psychoanalyze both the quick and the dead.

This question of "Why" is two-fold. The reason for Don Carlos is that he is one of the best all around newspaper men in the country, an astute executive, and a mighty likable chap on the whole.

As Don Carlos Seitz, poet and author, he is to be a thorn in the flesh of patient and plodding journalists trying to do the best they can. He should realize that they have to sell their wares to a changing public, to please solid business men, new women with missions, and also sheiks and shebas.

There never was a time when the newspaper calling needed more constructive criticism such as Don C Seitz might have given, nor less of the destructive variety such as literary persons like Don Carlos Seitz supply.

Such tirades as Don Carlos flings are like the sting of a hornet, stimulating, but devoid of nourishment.—The Fourth Estate.

LOVELL

David Webster Bassett

From Milton, Mass., Record, Aug. 14: "David Webster Bassett, a resident of East Milton for the past fourteen years, died Wednesday at his home, 475 Adams street, at the age of ninety-five years.

"Mr. Bassett was born in Lovell, Maine where he spent his boyhood. When about twenty-six years old he married Mary C. Hazeltine, and went soon afterwards with his wife to Minneapolis, Minn., where the couple made their home for several years. Mr. and Mrs. Bassett and their young son, Elmer, settled next in Haverhill, Mass., where Mr. Bassett stayed until the death of his wife, fourteen years ago. He then came to live with his only child, Elmer C. Bassett of 475 Adams street, East Milton.

"Besides his son, Mr. Bassett is survived by two grandchildren, Max C. Bassett of Hyde Park and Harold W. Bassett of Milton, and by fie great-grandchildren. He was the last surviving member of a family of thirteen.

"The funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at his home, in charge of Rev. Warren P. Landers, pastor of the East Church. Burial was in Milton Cemetery."

Waterford Visitors—Camp Konewago Opened to Public, Wednesday Evening.

Quite a number of people have been in Waterford lately, who have not been here for some time, among them are Robert Pollard and his wife, Eleanor Emery Pollard, and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Emery. Their many friends were glad to see them.

Dr. and Mrs. F. P. Hamlet of Hempstead, L. I., are spending a couple of weeks at Stone Home.

The summer business is at its height now, in Waterford, Hotel, camps and boarding houses are well filled.

Camp Konewago, under the direction of Mrs. William C. Carson, opened to the public on Wednesday evening, August 11, at which time members of the camp gave a most delightful entertainment. Two plays were presented under the direction of Miss Jean Adair Eaton. The first, "The Raven Man," an Indian tale, and the second, "Will o' the Wisp," a myth of the Schottish Moors. Both were beautifully staged in the open and the surrounding pines added greatly to the beauty of the stage settings. The casts were as follows:

"The Raven Man" .....
Jacqueline Sanford, Helen Taylor, Mary Chapman, Helen Trotter, Mary Louise Murray, Adelaide Smyth, Dorothy Stenhouse, Caroline Cook, Mildred Hadley.

"Will o' the Wisp" .....
Jacqueline Sanford, Isabelle Clarke, Carrie Meyer, Doris Jean Young.

Between the two plays a dance in colonial costume was presented by Betty Beach and Gladys Koch. Camp Kokosing with Mrs. George Tomes, director, was among the guests. Others from out of town noted were: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stenhouse, Mr. and Mrs. Beekman, Dr. and Mrs. Onslow Gordon, Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Skelton, Dr. and Mrs. Ellison Hillyer, all of Brooklyn, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. L. Hemmersley, of Ridgewood, N. J., Mr. and Mrs. Walter MacDonald, of New York, and others.

Abolish Those Rheumatic Pains

If you are suffering from a rheumatic infection; if you have tried many medicines, hoping for relief but not finding it, why not try a method more direct, more positive in action?

If your trouble is the outgrowth of bacterial poisoning, the treatment which is most likely to bring quick and sure relief will be one that destroys the germs, thus stopping the poisoning process.

Where bacterial toxins are forming in joints and tissues, complete destruction of the germ colony is the shortest cut to normal health. When the germs are stopped, Nature has a chance to cure.

Such treatment is best carried out with a germicide sufficiently powerful to do the work quickly, yet non-poisonous and harmless to the delicate body tissues.

A germicide of such character is now obtainable. Ask your druggist for

B. & M.
EXTERNAL REMEDY
The Penetrating Germicide

You will find it altogether different from anything else on the market. It penetrates, destroys disease germs and neutralizes their poisons. Apply it where those rheumatic pains are worrying you and enjoy real relief. $1.25 for full-size bottle. If not obtainable locally, order direct from NATIONAL REMEDY COMPANY, P. O. You pay once only for any Concrete Farm Improvement

Farm Storage Cellar Will Pay for Itself

Have you ever had the experience of trying to sell apples, potatoes and other crops when everyone else was trying to do the same thing?

Markets glutted at harvest time often knock the profits out of a season's efforts.

Why not arrange to store some of your crops so they can be marketed in accordance with demand?

Here's where the concrete storage cellar comes in. Many a farmer who has one can tell you that its total cost was returned to him the first year by being able to take advantage of marketing conditions when they were most favorable.

You can easily build a storage cellar or other concrete improvements on your farm by following a few simple directions. Let us send you a free copy of our booklet "Plans for Concrete Farm Buildings." Write for it today.

NEIGHBOR: "Mighty handsome roof, Thurston!"
OWNER: "Yes—and it's got one fine feature. Wind can't force rain under those shingles*—and cause leaks."

A tight roof no matter how the wind howls

Here's a real improvement! When on the roof Barrett Self-Spacing Giant Shingles dovetail. No matter how the wind blows it can't force rain or snow up between the shingles—and through the roof.

We're thoroughly sold on these new Barrett asphalt shingles. We want you to see them. They're handsome—fire-safe—attractive in price. Can't rot or rust—never need painting. Come in. Look them over.

Town Warrant Committee

Larger Massachusetts Towns Have Advice of Leading Citizens Regarding Town Business

One of the features of town business in most of the larger towns in Massachusetts and also in a few Maine towns, is the warrant committee which advises what should be done about the proposals contained in the various articles of the warrants for town meetings. The Milton, Mass., Record announces the list of sub-committees to consider various topics as follows:

Forestry, Parks, and Cemetery
Highways and Street Lighting
Police, Fires, Wires, and Insurance
Salaries, the Poor, Public Health
Schools and Library
Water and Sewers
Miscellaneous

The committee comprises thirteen men and two women, all prominent citizens, appointed by the town moderator, and the sub-committees, of three members each, are appointed by the committee chairman.

A feature different from our Maine usage is that the warrant committee gives hearings on the various topics and makes recommendations regarding what articles to put in the town-meeting warrants, and follows this by recommendations regarding how to vote on the various propositions in the warrants.

Milton is one of the towns having a Massachusetts "limited town meeting" in which the business is done by "town meeting members" elected from precincts, each precient being entitled to three town meeting members for every 100 voters. This is a sort of half-way stop on the road to city government, and is practiced in towns that are too large for satisfactory assembling of the entire voting population. Milton has something more than 4,000 voters and approximately 125 town meeting members.

The moderator is elected to serve one year, and is the only important officer elected by the "town meeting members," the selectmen and others being chosen by ballot of all the voters in the town, while the voters of such precinct choose their own precinct election officers and "town meeting members" and you can watch it work!

$170,700 AN HOUR

A CONTINUOUS FLOW of money at the almost unbelievable rate of $4,098,000 a day or $170,700 an hour, Sundays and holidays included, was invested in the securities of public utility companies during the year 1925.

This represents more new financing during the past year than all the iron, steel, coal, copper, automobile, oil, rubber and shipping companies combined.

Because it offers the largest element of safety and a fair, reasonable cash return on their money and the privilege of seeing their money work for them at home the public utility is the most attractive means of investment for the rank and file of the people.

Its securities are more widely distributed than any other business.

Surely securities that appeal to so many people must be safe and satisfactory.

One of the leaders among power company preferred stocks is the 7 per cent Preferred Stock of Central Maine Power Company.

For twenty years it has paid uninterrupted dividends. Over 13,000 Maine people are now stockholders.

The price of this time-tried security has not yet advanced but remains where it has been for years: at $107.50 to yield 6 1-2 per cent. net.
